

DHK Trojan Overwhite Survival System

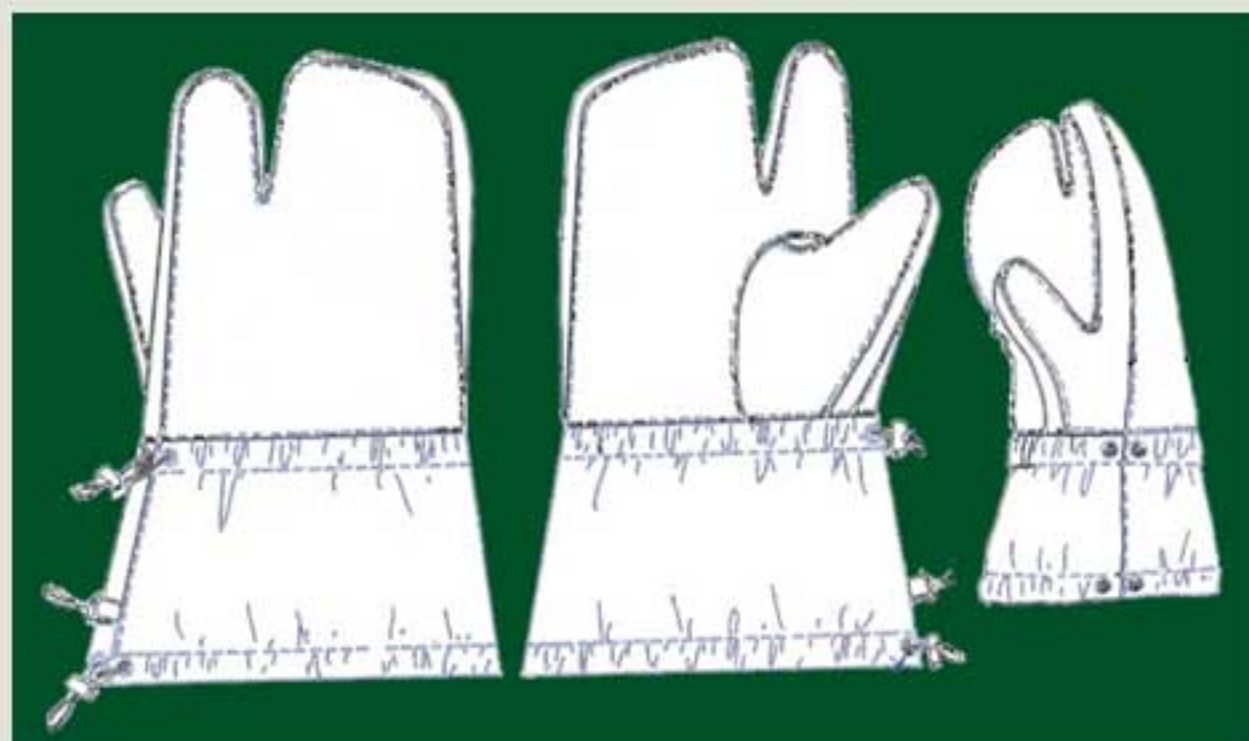

We at DHK Defense & Aerospace realize that military operations at high altitude and/or extreme low temperature conditions can be very dangerous and unforgiving, whether armed forces are under fire or being fired at. In order to conduct successful military operations, it is imperative that we provide our soldiers with the best clothing. Equipment must be designed to withstand and provide protection in the harshest environments.

In order to provide the best ECWCS equipment available, we utilize new fabrics and materials that trap heat, but let perspiration evaporate. The DHKTrojan clothing systems are designed with a modular concept.

MATERIAL:

Rip-Stop, water –proof, durable, excellent for low temperature conditions, and white in color. Designed with zipper covered and protected by a flap secured with snap buttons. This concept provides full protection under wind chill conditions and allows the zipper be operational even in icy conditions. Designed
